Elopements and Half Day Weddings::

There is a lot of gray area between these two categories. Elopements are usually the bride and groom and maybe a few close family and friends. Half Day weddings are regular weddings... in half the time.

Elopement Destination::

Elopement Destination ~ Contact Marc for Rates

- Because there are so many variables with a destination elopement, this would be a complete, custom package. Reach out to Marc Sadowski with more information.

FAQs

Here are the most common questions asked about my wedding photography services as well as my engagement and portrait photography. If your questions are not answered, please contact me directly at 978.476.1593 or send me an email to SadowskiStudio@gmail.com

Does my wedding need a second photographer? That all depends. 90% of the weddings I photograph are solo. That being said, here are the key moments where a second photographer comes in handy.

1. Getting Ready in Separate Locations: If your wedding party is getting ready in two very different locations that are pretty far apart, then having a second photographer is important for maximum coverage
2. Second set of eyes: There are moments in the day where the bride and groom will head off for portraits. The second photographer can stay with the guests to cover cocktail hour, dancing and more.

Are you insured? Yes, I am insured. If your wedding reception hall needs proof of insurance, please let me know and I can send them the necessary documents directly to the coordinator's office.

Where do you photograph? I photograph primarily in the New England states. But I am available to travel further.

Do you travel? Yes! While I regularly photograph all over New England and I am available nationwide.

Do you charge for travel? It depends on the location. If the wedding is far enough away from Haverhill MA (my home base), then I may charge for gas and/or the cost of a hotel room stay. If we are talking outside of the New England area... then let's talk.

Tell me something cool. I am happy to say that over the course of my photography career, I did the following pop-culture weddings: Star Wars, Star Trek, Harry Potter, Ghostbusters, Marvel Themed, Pride and Prejudice (yes, that counts, Colin Firth rocks), and even Game of Thrones... minus the red wedding.

We're talking to a lot of photographers, why should we pick you? I've been a photographer for 20 years. I learned how to photograph candid/photo journalistic styles from real photo journalists. I started photography back when I was a reporter for a local newspaper.

Look, there are a lot of photographers out there to pick from. I'm not going to say I'm better than this person or that person. There's a lot of talent out there. I will say this. Look out for the following and think about how many times you heard this one:

I'm a candid photographer. I keep back at a distance and photograph what I see with no interfering. I like to capture the moment

I like candid photos, too. I even promote myself as a candid photographer. But there is a time to be invisible and a time to be very, VERY visible. If you have a large family and/or large wedding party, you want your portrait time to go smoothly, fast and painless. After all, there's a party to rush to. I have a ton of experience with big groups, excited groups, complicated family dynamics.

I use natural light so that my photos look more real

What that usually means is that they don't have any lights of their own. Look, we live in New England. Summer times are great for light, but what happens when there is no light? We get storms here and in the Fall and Winters, the light is gone really fast. I have plenty of experience with natural light. But more importantly, I have MANY years of experience where there is very little light, or BAD light. There have even been the rare occurrences where there was no light whatsoever.

I'm not a photographer, I'm a storyteller

Great, I can't wait to read their book. I'm not a storyteller, I'm a photographer. I'm there to capture your big day as candidly as possible. During portrait time, I photograph family and wedding party as quickly as possible without compromising quality. When it's time to photograph you and your partner, I make sure we pose shots, but have so much fun that everything is also candid. And then you party.

I'm not telling your story, YOU are. I'm merely taking your story and freezing it... making it timeless.

I make your stories timeless

Hey, wait a minute!!!

In all seriousness, I like to tell all my couples this: 30 years from now, if you're looking through your photos and you remember me, then I have failed as a photographer.

My goal is for you to look at your photos 30 years from now and remember this moment and that moment. "I can't believe he danced like that" or "Wow, that was a lot of fun." I want your day to look like how it was in your mind's eye. No crazy pastel or brown-tone filters. Honest to goodness YOUR day look.

Now, if you want to remember me 5 years from now, go ahead. I can really use the referral.

What happens if you get struck by lightning? If that happens then by comic book rules, I get sweet, super powers. But in the real world (or the DC cinematic universe) then that means something dreadful has happened to me. Fear not, I have photography colleagues that can jump in and save the day!

Do you do Videography? If you would like a photography/video package, please contact me. I have a team of videographers that I regularly work with.

ENGAGEMENT / PORTRAIT FAQ::

What should we wear? What should we bring? I try to keep the engagement sessions candid and fun. Dress however you want that best reflects who you are. If you want to bring props, then that's all good. We'll have fun.

Can we bring our dog? You can. However, if you have an excitable or very active dog, please take time before the engagement session to let some energy out. That way, they are not too hyper for photos.

Can we bring our cat? Sure, why not.

Really? Hey, if your cat will cooperate on a location, then I want to be the one to photograph it. Seriously, I've had weirder requests. I had a horse in a family portrait session that gave me the raspberry.

Are you just fooling us? Think about it this way, I created an FAQ section just to answer this very question. And I did it after that dang horse stuck his tongue out at me! That's no joke, he really did it!

Is there an animal that you won't photograph? Lizards and fish. Sorry, but I don't trust them. And don't even get me started on birds...

Conclusion::

Anything else we should know? Look, here's the deal. I'm just REALLY impressed that you actually read this far down. Most people just flip to the price tag and then delete this PDF, then reach out to me asking for my pricing again like I'm holding something back.

So if you made it this far and mention it to me, I'm adding a free canvas print to your wedding package just for the hell of it. And not just some 8x10 little one. I'm talking 11x14.
